

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system is provided for predicting a load degree of a customer's elevator from the information about the customer's building and elevator, creating and displaying the maintenance plan according to the load degree, and selecting a proper maintenance plan in consideration of the load degree of the customer's elevator and the customer's needs.

00010345-030001